Message From the Chief

To the Citizens of Iowa City,

This annual report highlights the activities and accomplishments of the Iowa City Police Department during the 2016 calendar year. Strong in our partnerships with area law enforcement agencies, other City departments and community organizations, we continue to strive together towards the reduction of crime to make Iowa City a welcoming community where residents can raise their families in a safe environment.

This past year would be best described as one of transitions. In May, Chief of Police Sam Hargadine announced his retirement. Chief Hargadine, who had led the Department for eleven years, was set to take on the role of Executive Director with the Iowa Police Chiefs Association. As the City worked through the process of selecting a new chief, both Captains Troy Kelsay and Bill Campbell each served ninety day appointments as Interim Chief of Police.

Diversifying the workforce has been a longstanding goal of both the City and Police Department. With Council approval, the Police Department temporarily over-hired three qualified minority applicants to take advantage of an opportunity to increase diversity on the force. The addition of the three black officers brought the Police Department more in line with the racial make-up of Iowa City.

As 2016 came to a close, the City announced that Altoona Chief of Police Jody Matherly would be hired as our next Police Chief. Chief Matherly joined the Department in January of 2017, marking the beginning of a new chapter in the Department's history. With a strong focus on community outreach, Chief Matherly brings new ideas and energy to the Department.

It has been a great honor for us to lead the Department through this unique and exciting time. The Department is strong and stands ready to serve our great community.

Sincerely,

T.Kelsay

Captain Troy Kelsay

Bill Campbell

2016 Retirements

Chief Sam Hargadine
Date of Hire: August 29, 2005
Retirement: June 30, 2016
11 Years of Service

Iowa City Police Chief Sam Hargadine announced his retirement from the Iowa City Police Department, effective June 30th after accepting a position as the Executive Director of the Iowa Police Chief's Association.

Chief Hargadine served the Iowa City community as Police Chief since August 2005. During his tenure in Iowa City, Chief Hargadine was instrumental in implementing a number of important initiatives. Community outreach and interagency collaboration made great strides under his direction. The Police Chaplain program was implemented in 2013 and enlists volunteer Chaplains to counsel crime victims, provide support for officers and their families, and help the Iowa City Police Department engage with community members. More recently, Chief Hargadine advocated bringing the Crisis Intervention Team (CIT) model to Iowa City. Led locally by Johnson County, this model develops partnerships between law enforcement, mental health providers, and healthcare professionals to more effectively respond to mental health crises and substance abuse issues. The CIT program also stresses using interagency collaboration to help individuals in crisis enter into treatment rather than utilize more costly and less effective emergency room visits or serve jail time.

Chief Hargadine also took the lead on engaging in a fact-based and public discussion on the issue of disproportionate minority contact and strategies to reduce disproportionality. He worked extensively with St. Ambrose University to collect and analyze traffic stop data for disproportionality. The Iowa City Police Department is one of two police departments in the state that uses traffic stop data in this manner.

In 2007, Chief Hargadine brought the Crime stoppers program to Iowa City. The program has helped solve a homicide, as well as several armed robberies and multiple other crimes in the community. He was also involved in the successful passage and implementation of the under-21 bar ordinance in Iowa City. This ordinance has been credited with creating a more family-friendly downtown atmosphere.

Most recently, the Iowa Police Chief's Association honored Chief Hargadine with their prestigious Police Chief of the Year award.

Juvenile Investigator

In 2011, the Iowa City Police Department created the position of Juvenile Investigator whereupon Officer Kevin Bailey was initially chosen to fulfill this position. Investigator Kevin Bailey continued in that role up until May of 2015 when after internal staffing changes Officer Gabe Cook assumed the position of Juvenile Investigator. Investigator Cook continued the already established role of reviewing all juvenile related reports and charges stemming from Iowa City Police Department Officer contacts. Investigator Cook also continues to conduct investigations into juvenile related incidents and activities, conducts follow up with juveniles in the community and their families, as well as tracks juvenile related cases through the juvenile court system. In addition to these duties, Investigator Cook remains actively involved in preventive endeavors by being available as a resource for the Iowa City School district, parents, and other community groups.

Investigator Cook continues to work with the Iowa City Community School District in reviewing their discipline protocol manual. This manual is constantly re-evaluated with the goal of reducing the number of juvenile complaints to police, while still holding the juveniles accountable for behavior modification.

Community Outreach Initiatives

Community Outreach Officer

In 2015, former FasTrac director Henry Harper was hired to fill a newly formed role within the department titled Community Outreach Assistant. As this position was listed as a part time position initially, the ICPD recognized the importance and impact of the position within the community and sought to make it a full time permanent position. In July of 2016, the Iowa City Council unanimously approved the creation of a full time position within the Police Department. After a hiring process was conducted, Henry Harper was hired to fill the full time position of Community Outreach Officer.

While Henry continues to meet with youths, the families, and school staff, Henry was able to initiate several community outreach opportunities specifically designed to enhance the relationships between the youth in the community and the ICPD. Listed below are several of the initiatives that Henry began in the year of 2016.

- Bus Pass Program
- High School Basketball league
- Sit & Chat
- Lunch With the PD
- Holiday food drive with Brueggers Bagel Bakery
- Soul Food Dinner
- RAGBRAI
- Cookie W/Cops

The course continues to partner with the Iowa City Fire Department and the Johnson County Ambulance Service. After completion of the Senior High Academy, students who complete grades 9 through 12 or will be in high school this fall have the option to continue their training through the Johnson County Public Safety Learning for Life Leadership Academy that operated monthly throughout the school year. Student cadets attend monthly meetings throughout the school year to continue to investigate careers in public safety and build leadership and life skills. The group also completes community service projects along with doing a ride-along with each department.

Iowa City Police Awarded Accreditation for Sixth Time

In 2016, the Iowa City Police Department was awarded CALEA Advanced Law Enforcement Accreditation effective March 25, 2017 for the sixth time (Meritorious Status). The Department was recognized at the CALEA National Conference in Mobile, Alabama.

The Commission on Accreditation for Law Enforcement Agencies, Inc., (CALEA) was created in 1979 as a credentialing authority through the joint efforts of law enforcement's major executive associations:

- International Association of Chiefs of Police (IACP);
- National Organization of Black Law Enforcement Executives (NOBLE);
- National Sheriffs' Association (NSA); and the
- Police Executive Research Forum (PERF).

The purpose of CALEA's Accreditation Programs is to improve the delivery of public safety services, primarily by: maintaining a body of standards, developed by public safety practitioners, covering a wide range of up-to-date public safety initiatives; establishing and administering an accreditation process; and recognizing professional excellence.

CALEA Accreditation serves as the International Gold Standard for Public Safety Agencies. This voluntary process of CALEA Accreditation begins with a rigorous self- assessment, requiring a review of policies, practices and processes against internationally accepted public safety standards. This is followed with an assessment by independent assessors with significant public safety experience. Additionally, public feedback is received to promote community trust and engagement, and structured interviews are conducted with select agency personnel and others with knowledge to assess the agency's effectiveness and overall service delivery capacities. The decision to accredit is rendered by a governing body of twenty-one Commissioners following a public hearing and review of all reporting documentation.

To earn the most recent CALEA reaccreditation, the ICPD collected and maintained proofs of compliance with 189 applicable standards for each of the preceding three years (March 2014 through March 2017). On December 3-6, 2016, a team of CALEA Assessors arrived at the ICPD to conduct a thorough onsite assessment. On March 25, 2017, ICPD Captain Troy Kelsay, Accreditation Manager Sergeant Doug Hart, and former Accreditation Manager Lieutenant David Droll sat before a panel of CALEA Commissioners during the final phase of the reaccreditation process. As a result of the hearing, the ICPD was again awarded CALEA Accreditation.
